Ref: Executive Design Building Contractors

It gives me great pleasure to write a reference for Paul and Neil Belchor of Executive Design. They recently refitted and redecorated a bathroom for us.

The thought of having builders in the house for two weeks filled us with dread but Paul and Neil made that experience easy. They were approachable and friendly. My 6 year old son enjoyed hanging out with them after school and might even find his vocation in the building trade as a result!

From day 1 they were punctual, courteous and professional in their approach to the job. As with all jobs the occasional unexpected extra bit of work cropped up and they dealt with it in their stride, staying late to finish whenever necessary. They always left the house clean and tidy at the end of the days work.

They have completed the work on our house to a very high standard. We would be more than happy to use their services again and indeed based on the work they have done for us, recommend them highly to others.
